Premier May Yet Be With British Arms Parleyers

SITS WITH CABINET

First Session Since His Vacation. British Delegation
Six

BY EARLE C. REEVES

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The British government today decided to postpone until the last minute the departure of the delegation to the Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern problems. The reservation on the liner Olympic has been cancelled and fresh reservations have been made on the liner Aquitania which sails from Southampton Nov. 5. This change increases the possibility that Premier Lloyd-George will attend at least some of the sessions. The conference will open November 11.

Premier Lloyd George today presided at the first cabinet meeting since his return from his vacation. The meeting was one of the most important in years. Three matters of domestic and international importance were on the schedule:

1.—Washington conference, including the selection of the British delegation and the drafting of a note in reply to Secretary of State Hughes' note which accompanied the text of the agenda;

2.—Unemployment situation and a survey of the recommendations of the various government department heads

3.—Irish peace conference and the selection of the British delegation.

It was tentatively decided at today's cabinet meeting to appoint six British delegates to the Washington conference, representing both Canada and Australia as well as the British Empire as a whole.

It is understood that two of the envoys will represent the empire, two will represent Canada, and the remaining two will represent Australia's case.

Latest reports in Whitehall select Marquis Curzon, colonial secretary, Churchill, A. J. Balfour and H. A. L. Fisher, as four of the British delegates.

It was expected that three different committees would be appointed to deal with the three questions. For the next few days however, the premier will be in full charge of all activities bearing upon all three of the matters in question.

The Pall Mall Gazette, which is very close to Premier Lloyd George and friendly to his political interests, reopened the question of the Premier's presence at the Washington conference today.

According to the Pall Mall Gazette, "powerful influences are at work to induce the Premier to go to Washington in November, accompanied by a large staff of financial experts."

The Pall Mall Gazette strongly hinted that "the powerful influences" were attempting to have the allied war debt question opened at Washington despite the opposition of the United States government.

From present indications the Premier will not go to Washington. For several weeks contradictory newspaper reports have been appearing upon this subject. It was indicated those stories were inspired to sound out public sentiment.

Before the meeting Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland conferred with the premier.

Gunner Falls From Boat And Drowns in Delaware

While gunning for reedbirds out in the Delaware River near Croyston, yesterday, Jacob Schlachter, of 117 West Thompson street, proprietor of a saloon at that address, lost his balance and fell from a boat and was drowned. Schlachter was seen to fall from the boat by another gunner, who notified the State police.

A Philadelphia police boat responded to a request for a grappling crew, but the body had not been recovered until this afternoon.

Greeks Turn The Tables

LONDON, Oct. 6.—After an offensive on a large scale was undertaken by Turkish infantry and cavalry near Eski-Shehr, the Greek army counter attacked and dispersed the enemy with heavy casualties, according to a Central News despatch from Athens today.

WORLD'S SERIES

Yanks . . . 00010002 x—3
Giants . . . 00000000—0

YANKS TAKES SECOND

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Clear and cool weather was on tap with practically no breeze, for the second clash between the Giants and the Yanks today in the fight for the world's baseball championship.

Governor Miller, of New York State, threw out the ball to Hoyt at 2:00 p. m. and the game was on.

Batteries:
Nepf and Smith for Giants.
Hoyt and Schang for Yanks.
Umpires—Morarity at the plate, Quigley at 1st, Chill at 2nd, and Righler at 3rd.

FIRST INNING

Giants—Burns up. A mighty cheer went up as the Giants' center fielder spit on his hands and dug his toes into the ground and faced the pitcher. Burns out on three strikes. Bancroft up. Bancroft out at first on a bunt. Frisch up. Frisch out, Ward to Pipp. No runs.

Yanks—Miller up. Miller walked. Nepf seemed to have difficulty in finding the plate. Peck up. Nepf waited two balls thinking Miller was going to get down to second. Peck out. Nepf to Kelly, Miller going to 2nd. Ruth up. Ball one, wide; ball 2, wide; ball 3, wide; ball 4, wide. Ruth was walked purposely and the crowd booed and gaped the pitcher hard. They wanted a chance to see the famous batter hit a homer. Meusel up. Meusel out on a hit into a double play. The Giants speared his line drive, doubling Miller at 3rd.—No hits, no runs.

SECOND INNING

Neither side scored in the second inning.

THIRD INNING

Giants—Rawlings up. Singled to left field. It was a Texas Leaguer which fell between Ruth and Peck. Rawlings was the first Giant to reach first. Peck up. Pipp to Pipp. Rawlings being held at 1st. Nehf up. Nehf fanned. Burns up. Burns hit an easy grounder down to Peck, who made a put-out.—No runs, one hit.

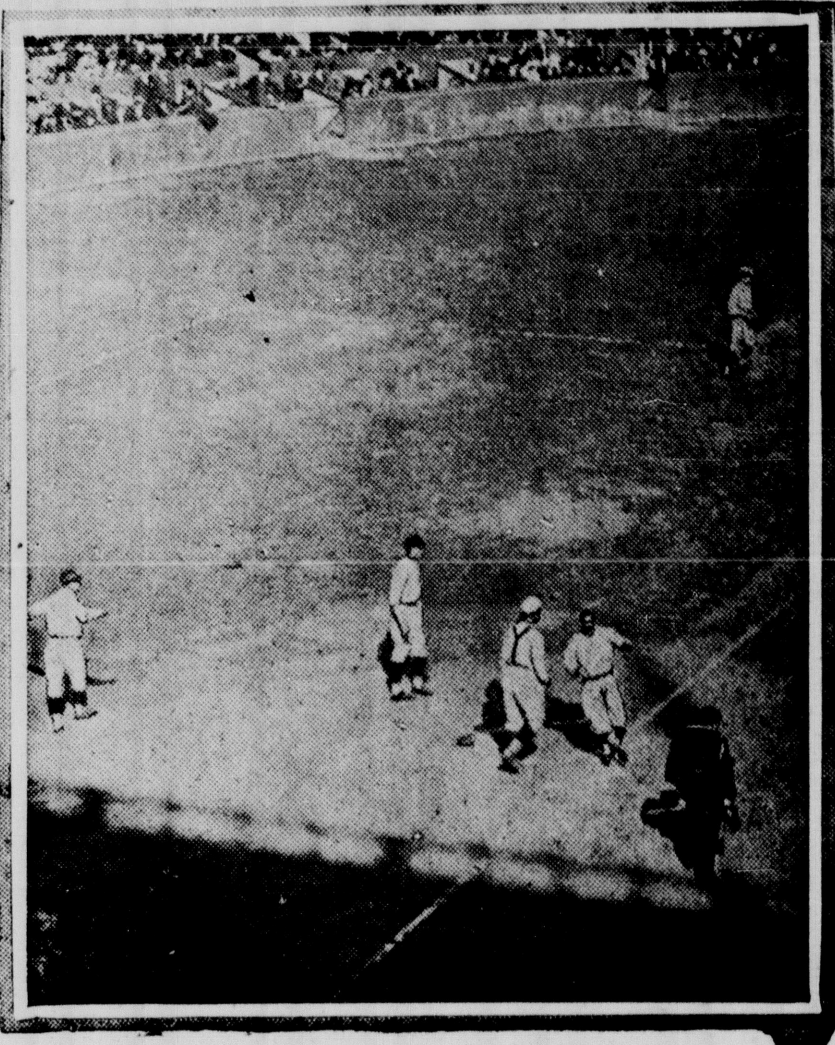

Yanks—Schang up. Schang flied. The crowd gave a big hand to Hoyt when he walked up to the plate for his turn at the bat. The Yank's pitcher singled to second base. It was a Texas Leaguer which Rawlings almost got and it was also the first hit credited to the Yankees. Miller up. Miller flied to Burns, Hoyt being left on 1st. Peck up. Peck worked Nehf for a base on balls. Ruth up. Ruth hit a foul and ball four was called. An awful howl went up from the crowd.

McNally a Happy Boy

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Mike McNally, the youngster playing third base for the Yankees who electrified the crowd yesterday by stealing home was a happy and proud boy today.

"I noticed that Douglass wasn't paying much attention to me and was taking a big wind-up," McNally said. "So I thought I'd take a chance and try to get away with something. I was sure I was safe as Snyder didn't put the ball on me but just the same I felt good when the umpire said 'safe.'"

Miller Scores First Run

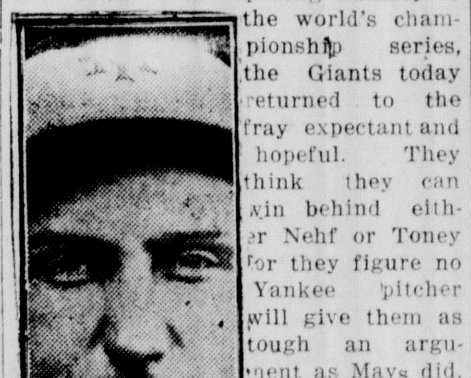

Slmer Miller, of the Yankees, scoring the first run of the world series in the first inning at the Polo Grounds, N. Y. Miller opened the inning with a single, went to second on Peck's sacrifice and scored on "Babe" Ruth's timely single.

McGraw's Men Return to Fray Undaunted by Defeat

Confident of Winning Behind Nehf or Toney, Though Betting Now Turns In Favor of Yanks.

BY SID MERCER

Staff Correspondent, N. Y. NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Not one whit abashed by their failure to score on Carl Mays in the opening number of the world's championship series, the Giants today returned to the fray expectant and hopeful. They think they can win behind either Nehf or Toney for they figure no Yankee pitcher will give them as tough an argument as Mays did. The Yanks are supremely confident. They not only got the jump on their Manhattan rivals but they picked the pitcher who figured to annoy them, most. Now, with Hoyt, Shawkey and Harner to choose from they feel they are "riding pretty". They don't believe McGraw has another pitcher who can hold them as well as Phil Douglas did.

Betting on the series took a turn in favor of the Yanks today but the odds have not shortened as much as they would if the verdict of the first game had been reversed. The backers of the Giants were asking 8 to 5 against the Yanks to win the series but in many instances were getting better odds from persons who believe the Yanks will play every game as they did yesterday.

The Yankees are also 7 to 5 to win today's game no matter who pitches. The sum and substance of the first game was that Douglas was good but Mays better.

No one knows for a certainty who will pitch today. As Mays was considered a sure starter for the Yankees yesterday, so Waite Hoyt the Brooklyn lad is nominated by acclamation this morning.

A rumor persists that Bob Shawkey will be given his chance by Huggins this afternoon. The Yankees can afford to gamble a little, though, of course two straight is much better than an even break.

Dr. Hermes Reported Appointed

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—Dr. Hermes, food minister in the Wirth cabinet has been appointed German ambassador to the United States according to the Neue Berliner Zeitung today. The report is not officially confirmed but it has been reported in semi official circles for several days that Dr. Hermes or foreign secretary Rosen would get the post.

The Yanks expect to see Hoyt win if they can give him as many runs as they banked for Mays yesterday. Shawkey is a pitcher whose style should bother the Giants. He is a world's series veteran, a cool and resourceful performer and a game guy. If Huggins pitches Shawkey today and wins with him, the Yanks will be hot favorites for it will mean there is a third good right-hander to couple with Mays and Hoyt. This trio would not need much help. On the other hand if Shawkey should lose, Hoyt could step in tomorrow and be sure of not drawing Douglas. Huggins is noted for his conservative tactics and that is why he may start Shawkey today with Hoyt, or possibly Jack Quinn, in reserve. Ball players will tell you that Quinn would be a hard nut for the Giants to crack.

McGraw must come back with either Toney or Nehf. It looks like the spot for the left hander. The Yanks look bad against Dick Kerr who has a style something like Nehf's. If Nehf can inveigle Ruth into reaching out for his crossfire the big gun of the Yanks may be spiked. But Nehf must reckon with Bob Meusel, who spansks left-handers. That batting order of the Yanks is hydra-headed.

McGraw was justified in leading his ace yesterday. He knows the importance of getting away in front. The Little Napoleon has always been an exponent of the dashing attack. The trouble yesterday was that the Giants dashed themselves to pieces on the pitching of Mays and the rock-ribbed infield back of Carl.

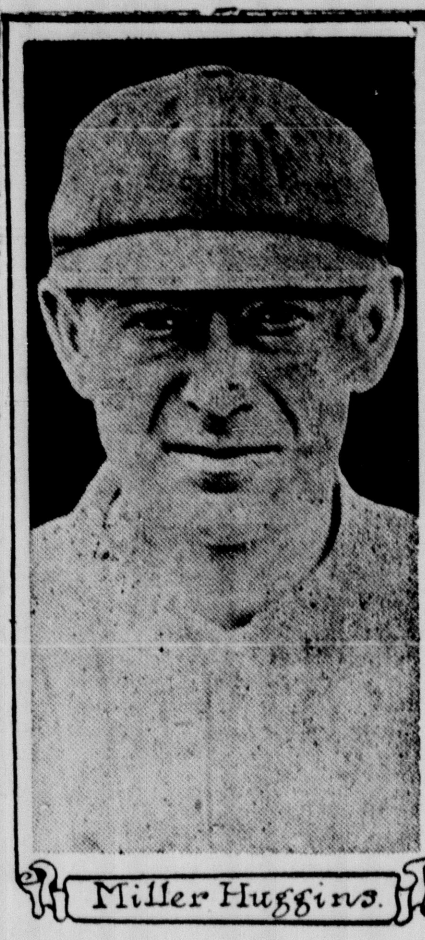

The Giants are by no means in a jam. Douglas can come back by Saturday. The game he pitched yesterday was classic. A pitcher cannot win when he has no runs. Chances are that Phil and Carl will meet again in this series.

McGraw likes Toney. The Tennessee Mountaineer has a wide assortment of deceivers. There are five right-handed batsmen in the Yankees when right hander served against them. Toney however is more or less of an in-and-out. With a game under their belts, McGraw probably would pitch the big fellow today. He may do it any way. The Giants will pin their hopes on Douglas, Toney and Nehf.

"The duel between the Meusel brothers was not highly spectacular. Neither was credited with a hit though Bob lost a triple by failing to tap first base on a long jolt, which Brother Emil chased to the center field fence.

Bargains Anticipated at Sale

Some quite valuable articles have been received for the rummage sale which will be held tomorrow and Saturday afternoons in the parish house of St. James Episcopal Church. Among these is a lady's fur coat in very good condition. Persons desiring to contribute to the sale are asked to bring their contributions on Friday morning.

Say Fiancee Awaits Missing War Veteran

N. Wales Man Alleged to be
About to Wed Lansdale
Girl

FATHER THINKS HARM

NORTH WALES, Pa., Oct. 6.—LeRoy C. Kinsey, aged 28, of 316 S. 4th street, in this town, who is said by friends to have been on the eve of marriage to a Lansdale girl, has mysteriously dropped out of sight.

Kinsey, a former service man, has not been seen since September 16th. There has been no public announcement of Kinsey's approaching marriage but his friends say he was engaged to a young girl and the couple had planned to be married this fall.

Kinsey was employed as a collector for an insurance company until a month ago, when he lost his position. This, however, is not believed to have any bearing on his disappearance, as he is said to have been well supplied with funds.

His father, Jacob Kinsey, believes his son has been a victim of foul play. The father bases this theory on the fact LeRoy was cheerful when last seen. He left the house saying he was going for a walk. At that time, he father is understood to have said, the young man carried about $1,000 in Liberty Bonds.

Suspicion of foul play is heightened by the fact Kinsey had money on deposit in a bank which was untouched. Kinsey was in the west when the United States entered the war and enlisted at Camp Fremont. He was assigned to a division that was one of the first to be ordered overseas, and saw extensive service.

He was on duty in France, and also saw service in Italy, Russia and with the Army of Occupation in Germany. He also was on an army mission that took him into Spain.

He escaped being wounded or gassed, so there is scant possibility of his disappearance being caused by loss of memory or attendant ills. It is believed.

Through private detectives and police, a quiet search has been conducted for Kinsey since a few days after he dropped from sight. A week ago his parents went to Atlantic City to view a body that had been washed up on the beach, but it had been identified as another man before their arrival.

Local Concern Shipping Ice To Pocono Region

If the Artesian Ice Company was doing so that progressive Bristol concern might be subjected to ridicule and accused in the words of the old adage, of "carrying coals to Newcastle." The facts, at their face value, would seem to indicate such useless endeavor, for the Artesian is shipping ice to the Poconos. The Artesian knows its business, apparently however, and is not shipping material to a place where it is plenty, for it has found a demand for its chilly product right in the heart of the Pocono Mountains, where ice is supposed to so abound in winter time as not only to supply that region but cities and towns for hundreds of miles around.

The Artesian Ice Company has just shipped the second carload of ice this month to the Buck Hill Falls Company, at Cresco station.

Watkins and Delker Bodies Arrive Soon

Two More of Town's War
Heroes to be Buried
October 16th

LEGION POST PREPARES

Bristol will receive the bodies of two more of its heroes on Thursday next and will bury them, with fitting honors, on Sunday, October 16th. Robert W. Bracken Post, American Legion, has just been notified of the arrival of the bodies of Eugene Watkins and Russell T. Delker, and Commander Franklin Gilkeson has issued the necessary orders for the funerals. The funeral of Watkins will be held at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and Delker's at 3 o'clock. Both will be buried in the Bristol Cemetery. The Rev. Henry Stuart Paynter, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, will officiate at the Watkins funeral and the Rev. Henry M. Hartmann, pastor of the Presbyterian church will officiate at the Delker funeral.

RUSSELL T. DELKER

Bracken post will turn out in full strength and will conduct the funerals of both heroes, other than the services within their homes. Commander Gilkeson has requested every member of the post and every ex-service man who can attend to assist in showing respect to these two who died for the cause.

The military band will be brought from Camp Dix, N. J. and will participate in both funeral processions. Eugene G. Watkins, son of the late Mrs. Anna Watkins, 927 Main Street, was killed in action in France on November 1st, 1918, a few days before the armistice. He left here on June 28th with a draft contingent, going to Camp Meade, and was sent overseas on July 6th, as a member of Company K, 316th Infantry, 79th Division. Russell Thomas Delker, a son of Christopher and Elizabeth Delker of 582 Swain street, was also killed in action, as a member of the same unit as Watkins. Flying shrapnel took Delker's life, on September 28th, at Montfaucon, the first battle he had been in.

Delker left Bristol on May 28th, for Camp Meade, and just four months later met his death in the Argonne offensive.

He was 22 years old at the time of his death and was formerly a member of the Bristol Police Department.

Pete Did Not Catch a Fish

Mr. Ellwood W. Minster, with a party of friends, returned on Wednesday evening from a fishing trip to Fortescue, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fine were in the party, which made the trip in motors. To inquiries about the trip, "Pete" replied: "The first fishing trip I've taken in fifty years, and we didn't catch a fish." The water was too rough in the Bay for the boats to go out.

Wayfarer Found Dead in Barn He Took Shelter In

Man Apparently in Search of Work Succumbed at Bensalem

WAS NOT IMPOVERISHED

Though Walking From Connecticut, He Had $100
in Pockets

Death terminated the journey of a middle-aged wayfarer who had sought shelter for the night in the barn of Paul Neutwick, at Bensalem.

The man, who is thought to be named Fred Nelson and his last address to be in Hartford, Connecticut, was found dead last evening. He had spent Tuesday night and Wednesday in the barn. It is supposed that he was walking from Hartford to Philadelphia.

He appeared at the Neutwick farm on Tuesday evening and asked for a night's shelter. He was shown to the barn and made himself a bed in the hay.

When farmhands came to the barn in the morning, the man complained to them of feeling ill and asked the privilege of remaining for the day in the barn, which was granted him. They visited him during the day, and, at evening when they went to see how he was getting along, they were surprised to find him dead.

His supposed name was gleaned from two letters found in his pockets. Both were letters of introduction from Arthur Graham, of Hartford, one to Mr. Langdon, of the Hess-Bright Roller Bearing Company, at Front Street and Erie Avenue, Philadelphia and the other to Howard Coward, of the Atlas Ball Company, of Front and Tioga streets, Philadelphia. It is presumed that the wayfarer was in search of work in these establishments.

He was by no means impoverished, however, for over $100 was found in his pockets.

The man was apparently between 45 and 50 years of age, almost six feet tall and weighed about 175 pounds.

The body is at an undertaking establishment in Hulterville awaiting some identification.

Fire Kills Woman When Poison Failed To Do So

NEWTOWN, Oct. 6.—Fire killed Mrs. Willet Hibbs whereas poison failed to do so. While she was burning some refuse in the rear yard of her home last Tuesday morning, the flames set fire to the back of her dress. In a moment or so she was enveloped in fire and was burned to such an extent, by the time Mrs. Robert McKenney and others summoned by her screams could extinguish the flames, that she died shortly after 5 o'clock in the evening.

Dr. G. A. Parker, Jr., of Newtown, promptly responded to a call, but saw that the woman was burned in a most terrible way and that it was impossible for her to live. The skin was burned from her body.

About a week ago Mrs. Hibbs was in a serious condition through taking poison in mistake for medicine. She has been in poor health for some time. Willet Hibbs, her husband is employed at the Bond garage, Newtown. The Hibbs have no children.

Solebury Artists Plan For The Community House

NEW HOPE, Oct. 6.—The artistic taste of Solebury has been called into service in planning the proposed community house.

A group of Solebury artists spent a part of the week end looking over the site from various vantage points, for the purpose of suggesting to the architects a style of building which will be in keeping with the spirit of Solebury. The house will follow closely the style of architecture which has made Solebury a beauty spot, attracting to it many of the famous artists of America.

The clearing for the actual site of the building is progressing. On Saturday many interested volunteers working with tractors cleared a space of more than a thousand square feet. It is hoped that by the end of the current week sufficient ground will have been cleared to allow the excavation to start.

Mrs. George Lichty, of Milton Grove was seriously injured when the shafts on a buggy in which she was riding broke throwing the horse and buggy down a 15-foot embankment.

ENEMIES OF THE HIGH SCHOOL

It is surprising to learn from the latest of the highly edifying and enlightening series of bulletins which the school board is issuing to the taxpayers through the columns of the Courier that there are persons so narrow minded as to argue that because so few graduate from the high school the need of a new building does not exist.

What narrowness, what crass ignorance, what injustice to the school children, to the parents of children and to the coming generations of Bristol!

Some "taxpayers" (God save the mark) seem to think more of a few dollars of taxes than they do of their children, or other people's children, or the progress of their fellow men.

These are the kind that squeal like stuck pigs when there is a likelihood of a dollar or so being put onto their tax bills, no matter what the benefit may be to themselves, their children, the community, or the generations to come after them. Such squeals of the impaled porcine animal seemed, by the way, to be distinguishable at a not remote meeting which had to do with school matters in an adjacent community, though, let it be said in justice to the borough of Bristol, that the shrieks of protest were not from town dwellers but from dwellers in the bucolic hinterland.

Bristolians should be above descending to similar parsimoniousness and narrowness, however, and above advancing such a specious argument as the one cited above; viz, that the dearth of graduates proves a new high school building unnecessary.

Don't these pin heads know that the better the high school accommodations, the more students there will be—and the more graduates.

Do these tissue paper brained persons realize the good a thoroughly modern and equipped high school will do Bristol? Don't they want Bristol to keep abreast of other communities?

Do they desire to nullify and absolutely destroy the endeavors which an earnest, public spirited and intelligent school board is making to raise the standing of the Bristol High School to the highest plane possible?

Are they desirous of marring the success the school board, through the school faculty, and particularly through the efforts of a capable and versatile principal who was procured on account of that capability and versatility and on account of his experience in creating an esprit d'corps, has had this term at the High School?

The way to have a large high school graduating class is to have a good high school.

Thinking people know the value such an institution will be to the town and they are not among these carpers.

SENATORIAL HOOD FOR PUBLIC

The Spencer committee which exonerated Senator Newberry of buying his seat and toga deceives itself more than the voters. It cannot have a true estimate of the citizens' perspicacity if it believes that the people are fooled by the cost of whitewash which it spread over the Newberry checks for $195,000.

The potency of money in political campaign has been the bane of republican government, and it would seem that party interests would be disregarded for the higher ethics at issue in a case where a rainfall of lucre stultified an election. If party considerations, rather than governmental principles, are to determine eligibility to the United States Senate, the people naturally conclude that the standards of that body are too low to be trustworthy or respectable.

Such relevant testimony as crept into the Senatorial hearing showed that $195,000 was spent for Newberry's election. The Senate committee justifies Newberry in its report by stating that he had no cognizance of these large disbursements.

Now, the fact is that the public does not judge Newberry by the Spencer committee's calumniating report, but that it judges the Spencer committee and the Senators who voted for it by the known fact that $195,000 was spent for Newberry's election. The public knows that the committee is serving hooch.

The survival of democracy rests on fair elections. The duty of the Spencer committee and all Senators was to sustain the integrity of suffrage. It is better to have a seat in the Senate vacant than filled with checks.

A TITLE TO SUIT THE CHARACTER

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle divulged this week to a company of friends at a banquet in London how he came to name his most noted character, Sherlock Holmes. Everybody who has followed the deductive process of this remarkable detective with rapt attention in the unraveling of deep mysteries has been struck with the befitting euphony of the title. Sherlock Holmes is a name that looks and sounds well; it gives the character a peculiar identity of personal class.

Sir Arthur said that he chose Holmes because it was an ordinary and easily remembered name, and contrasted with Dickens' appellation of "Sharp" for a detective. Sherlock was an inspirational selection. It was the name of a well known English cricket player. The author just fitted Sherlock and Holmes together.

Hawkshaw was the favorite name for a detective prior to the appearance of Sherlock Holmes. For some time detectives were alluded to as hawkshaws. It is probably a more descriptive class term, applicable to all detectives, but is not so impressive or indicative for a character as Doyle's invention.

Dickens was the mater of all authors in picking names which conveyed ideas of the characters drawn in his stories. The mind instantly pictures Murdstone, Dombey, Pickwick, Grimes, Little Em'ly, or the Veneerings. This artistry is simply an adaptation of everybody's habit of visualizing a person on hearing his name.

AT THE MERCY OF THE COURT

Gouverneur Morris, a talented descendant of one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, has been in financial straits. Under the poor debtor act, he has been and still is confined to the jail limits of Westchester county.

Mr. Morris told the court in White Plains, N. Y., that he had exhausted all of his resources in an earnest endeavor to satisfy his creditors. He had even, he said, sold his golf clubs.

Some of the creditors must be devotees of this ancient game. It is possible for them to sympathize with him in the extremity of distress. Imagine Babe Ruth selling his home-run bat. Or Mrs. Molla Bjerstedt Mallory selling the racquet with which she vanquished Suzanne Lenglen.

Ford declares that he will wage a nation-wide fight, if necessary, to cleanse politics. The reason that politics is rotten and offices are bought is that citizens don't vote, especially at the primaries. Purchasable votes are cast, but not enough of the other kind.

Moving companies announce that there will be but little moving on fall moving day. Is it the landlords turn to worry?

FOOD PEDDLERS AT SCHOOLS

Editor of the Courier:
Sir:—
I read in a Philadelphia paper that the arrest of peddlers who stand in front of public schools and sell food-stuffs and candies was ordered today by Director of Public Safety Cortelyou.

This action followed complaints from school principals that children have been made ill by highly colored candy and by unfit food sold by the peddlers.

There is a great deal of this going on in Bristol and I would recommend that the proper authorities take "Safety First" measures at once and not wait until there is sickness among the children.

A Philadelphia evening paper quotes Director Cortelyou as saying:—

"Last year there were complaints that pupils in the Central High School were being made ill by adulterated stuff sold by these men. We arrested some of them, but they obtained their release by Magistrates, on the ground that they were licensed vendors."

"I have since obtained an opinion from the City Solicitor that, while these vendors are licensed to sell on the streets, they have no right to set up a curb market by the schools. We will have all who try to do so brought before the magistrate."

Free Zones at Ports for Foreign Goods

BY CHARLES E. HUGHES

Staff Correspondent I. N. S.
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—Henry M. Robinson, formerly commissioner of the United States Shipping Board and now president of two of the largest Los Angeles banks in an address here today before the American Bankers' Association in annual convention outlined methods by which the United States can develop her foreign trade and at the same time maintain a protective tariff.

Mr. Robinson, through a discussion of the Trade Zone bill which Senator Jones, of Washington, now has before Congress, placed the problem of free ports of free zones before the gathering of bankers from every part of the nation.

The speaker explained that the Jones bill, as now amended, provides means for the creation of foreign trade zones in, or adjacent to American ports of entry and gives authority to the Secretary of Commerce to grant to states and municipalities the privilege of establishing such zones. Mr. Robinson also pointed out that, while under the bill's provisions, both foreign and domestic merchandise may be brought up into a free zone and there broke up, assembled, mixed with foreign or domestic merchandise, or otherwise manipulated for re-export, direct manufacturing, as such may not be carried on within the proposed districts. This, it was explained, is intended to allay fears of interior communities as to seaboard manufacturing competition.

Mr. Robinson said, in part:

"Under the terms of this act my duty is to be applied to merchandise delivered from ship to wharf within a free zone unless some part or all of it is taken out for domestic consumption, at which time it will pass through the Custom House and be subject to regular duty."

"In other words, we may within certain districts within our ports of entry, be a free-trade nation and at the same time protect our own domestic markets from a flood of cheaply-manufactured European and Asiatic goods."

"It is axiomatic that for the protection of the American manufacturer, a method must be provided for the maintenance of a merchant marine which will carry abroad the surplus of American manufactured goods, otherwise these goods must continue to back up upon our own markets and thereby reduce the earnings of our manufacturers, the profits of our merchants and the earnings of American labor itself."

This Sign Is Certain

Some of the old settlers have a habit of looking at the bark of trees or the fur of animals and then forecasting the weather. They say it is going to be a mild winter or a severe winter according to these signs.

We know of one sign that never fails. If you see a man who has a good job, plenty of coal in his bins and a nice bank account—for that man at least it will be a mild winter. Thrift always pays big rewards.

We do not know of a better plan for those who want to assure themselves a mild winter every year than to adopt the three rules of thrift:

IT WAS SAID BY SOME, THAT THIS simple and embarrassed fashion of giving advice, that poor Cherry could not resent it. She could only bow her head desolately upon her knees, as she sat, child-fashion, in her bed, and cry.

"A nice mess I've made of my life!" she sobbed. "I've made a nice mess of it! I wish—oh, my God, how I wish I was dead!"

"My own life has been so darned easy," Alix mused, in a cautious undertone, sitting, fully dressed, on the side of her own bed, and studying her sister with pitying eyes. "I've often wondered if I could buck up and get through with it if some of that sort of thing had come to me! I don't know, of course, but it seems to me that I'd say, 'Who loses his life shall gain it!' and I'd stand anything—people and places I hated, loneliness and poverty—the whole bag of tricks! I think I would. I mean I'd read the Bible and Shakespeare, and enjoy my meals, and have a garden—" Her voice sank. "I know it's terribly hard for you, Cherry!" she ended, suddenly pitiful.

Cherry had stopped crying, dried her eyes, and had reached resolutely for the book that was waiting on the little shelf above the porch bed.

"You're bigger than I am," she said, quietly. "Or else I'm so made that I suffer more! I wish I could face the music. But I can't do anything. I'm sorry. One knows of unhappy marriages, everywhere, without quite fancying just what a horrible tragedy an unhappy marriage is! Don't mind me, Alix."

Alix was conscious, as she went out to speak to Kow about breakfast, and to give a final glance at fires and lights, that this was one of the times when girls needed a wise mother, or a father, who could decide for them and advise.

Coming back from the kitchen, with a pitcher of hot water, she saw Martin, in a welter of evening papers, staring at the last pink ashes of the wood fire. Upon seeing her he got up, and with a cautious glance toward the bedroom doors he said:

"Look here a minute! Can they hear us?" Alix set down her pitcher of water, and came to stand beside him.

"Hear us—Peter and Cherry? No, Cherry's out on our porch, and Peter's porch is even farther away. Why?"

"Take a look, will you?" he said. "I want to speak to you!"

Alix, mystified, duly went to glance at Cherry, reading now in a little funnel of yellow light, and then crossed to enter Peter's room. His porch was dark, but she could see the outline of the tall figure lying across the bed.

"Asleep?" she asked.

"No!" he answered.

"Well, don't go to sleep without pulling a rug over you!" she commanded. "Good-night, Pete!"

"Good-night, old girl!" Something in the tone touched her, with a vague hint of unhappiness, but she did not stop to analyze it. She went back through his room, and through the little passage, and rejoined Martin.

The freedom of Peter's apartment Alix had always taken as naturally as she did the freedom of her father's.

"Can't hear us, eh? Martin asked, when again she stood beside him.

"Positively not!" she answered.

"Look here," he said, abruptly.

"What brought me up here is this. Who's making love to Cherry?"

Indignant, and with rising color, she stared at him.

"Who—what!"

"She's having a nice little quiet nrtation with somebody," Martin said, with a significant and warning smile. "Who is it?"

"I don't know who's been talking to you about Cherry, Martin," Alix said, sharply, "but you know you can't repeat that sort of rotten scandal to me!"

"I don't mean any harm—I don't mean any harm!" he assured her, with a quick attempt to quiet the storm he had raised. "Don't get mad—don't get mad! But I happen to know that there's some attraction that's keeping Cherry here, and I came up to look over the ground for myself, do you see? Come on, now, put me on!"

Alix made an effort at self-control. "Martin, you're mistaken!" she said, quietly. "You have no right to listen to any one who tells you such things, and if it wasn't that you're Cherry's husband I wouldn't listen to you! But you'll have to take my word for it that it's a lie. We three have lived up here without seeing any one—any one! Cherry has hardly spoken to a man, except Peter and Antone and Kow, since she came!"

"Who is this George Sewall?" he asked, shrewdly.

"The lawyer! Oh, heavens, Martin! Why, George was a beau of mine; he's a widower of fifty, and has just announced his engagement to the trained nurse that took care of his boy!"

"H'm!" Martin commented.

"If any one mentioned Cherry's name in connection with George," Alix said, firmly, "that was a perfectly malicious slander!"

"Sewall's wasn't mentioned!" Martin said, hastily.

"Whose name was mentioned, then?" Alix pursued, hotly.

"Well, nobody's name was mentioned," Martin took a great many creases and rubbed papers from his vest pockets, and shifted them over. Finally, with a fat, deliberate hand he selected one and put the others away.

"This is from my mother," he said. "My aunt, Mrs. North—"

"We saw her here a week or two ago!" Alix said as he paused.

"Well, she was in Portland, and saw the folks," said Martin. "And my mother writes me this—" And after a few seconds of searching he read from the letter:

"Bessie North saw Cherry and Mrs. Joyce in Mill Valley, and if I was you I would not let Cherry stay away too long. A wife's place is with her husband, especially when she is as pretty as Cherry, and if Bessie is right, somebody else thinks she's pretty, too, and you know it doesn't take much to start people talking. It isn't like she had a couple of children to keep her busy."

"That's all of that," said Martin, folding the letter. He eyed Alix keenly. "Well, what do you think?" he asked, triumphantly.

"I think that's a mean, wicked thing to say!" she said, indignantly. "No, Martin," she said, silencing him, as he would have interrupted her, "I know she is beautiful and young, and I know—because she's told me—that you and she feel that your marriage is a mistake, but if you think—"

"Oh, she said that, did she? Now, look here," with his air of assurance. "By George, she had something on her mind when she wrote me today. She was fussed, all right, and it wasn't all the surprise of seeing me, either. First she wanted to telephone you—then she fussed over your message—"

"Cherry gets flustered very easily!" Alix reminded him.

"What brought me up here is this. Who's making love to Cherry?"

Indignant, and with rising color, she stared at him.

"Who—what!"

THEATRES

Forrest Theatre

Ann Luther, noted as one of the most beautiful women of the screen proves herself absolute mistress of a role that few of her rivals would dare attempt in "Soul and Body," which will be the feature at the Forrest Theatre tonight. In "Soul and Body" Miss Luther plays the part of Katinka Vechez, a lovely little Roumanian girl who is sold by her father to a traveling "woman-trader," auctioned off by the latter at public sale and passes through the agonies of a hundred deaths before she finally is delivered, pure-hearted still, from her soul-enslavement.

The first episode of a new serial, "Miracles of the Jungle" will be shown at the Forrest tonight.

Bob Hathaway and Tom Cortland, United States Secret Service men, are sent to Africa to bring back a supposed murderer. For two years, they go through the jungles fighting wild animals and cannibals. Their chief enemy is "Red Fox," a notorious crook, who has abducted the two daughters of Madison, the fugitive from justice.

They go through many thrilling adventures, impelled time after time by the crafty "Red Fox" and his barbarous allies. After many hardships, they finally outwit him, send him to his fate, and end with two romances the unusual adventures on the "Dark Continent."

GREAT MASS OF PROOF

Reports of 50,000 Cases of Kidney Trouble, Some of Them Bristol Cases

Each of some 6,000 newspapers of the United States is publishing from week to week, names of people in its particular neighborhood, who have used and recommended Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney backache, weak kidneys, bladder troubles and urinary disorders. This mass of proof includes over 50,000 recommendations. Bristol is no exception. Here is one of the Bristol cases.

William Johnson, retired railroad man, 635 Cedar street, says: "I suffered for years with a lame back, due to an accident that happened while on the road. I was so sore and pains caught me so badly, I could hardly get on my feet. I couldn't turn in bed. I suffered with awful pains in my head and my kidneys were irregular in action and weak. I doctored and tried several other remedies, but nothing helped me until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. This good remedy got right to the seat of the trouble and relieved me."

Recover More Bodies From Paris Tunnel Disaster

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Additional bodies were found early today in the debris of the two trains that were wrecked in the St. Lazaire station tunnel Wednesday night. It is believed the death list may go to 40 as some of the 50 injured are in a critical condition. Both trains were bound for the suburbs. One crashed into the rear of the other. The American red cross has taken a prominent part in caring for the injured.

Few Fans In Early Line Outside The Polo Grounds

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Only a handful of fans waited on line in the early hours today at the Polo Grounds to make sure of getting into the second game of the world's series. Profiting by their experience of yesterday when 8000 places were vacant the bulk of the fans seemed to have spent the night in sweet and well earned repose. Only two men were on line at midnight. They said they were Albert Teralla, a chauffeur, of Hartford, Conn., and Mike McKeown, of Lawrence, Mass.

Farmer Parson to Hold Retreat
Rev. Samuel B. Booth, the "farmer-parson" in charge of the Bucks County Missions of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania, who served as an army chaplain in France, today conducted the annual retreat of the Prayer Guild for the Teaching of the Church. The retreat was held at the Pro-Cathedral, Broad and South streets, Philadelphia. It began with celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 A. M., and concluded with evening prayer at 4 P. M. The Rev. Mr. Booth made several addresses.

France Reported To Have Eased Up On Germany

PARIS, Oct. 6.—An unconfirmed report that France had granted easier indemnity terms to Germany was current here today. It evidently arose from the conference which is now being held at Wiesbaden by Walter Rathenau minister of reconstruction in the German cabinet, and M. Loucheur, minister for liberated regions in the French cabinet. This is the second conference held by the two ministers for the purpose of facilitating commercial relations between the two countries.

Langhorne News Briefly Told

LANGHORNE, Oct. 6.—A wedding to which only the immediate families and a few close friends were invited occurred on Saturday evening, October first, when Miss Ethel Search, daughter of Mrs. Erasmus Miles Search, of Becket, Massachusetts, became the bride of E. Irwin Gilbert of Philadelphia.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. James J. Bingham of Bristol, at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. George Howard Cliff, of Langhorne Manor. It took place in the alcove of the reception room, which was banked with palms and ferns and cut flowers. The stairway, library, and enclosed veranda were profusely decorated with Southern smilax, wall baskets of gladioli, dahlias, snapdragons and other fall flowers in yellow tone.

The bride, was most becomingly attired in a gown of kitten's ear satin trimmed with duchesse lace, the bridal veil being trimmed with old family lace with cap of duchesse and point held in place with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, orchids and roses.

The bride was given away by her brother, Leroy Search, of Chambersburg, Pa. She was attended by her niece, Miss Doris Benney, of Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., who was attired in yellow honey dew taffeta, with picture hat of yellow, and carried yellow cactus dahlias.

Mrs. Thomas A. Parkhill, in gown of robin's-egg blue brocade, with silver lace trimming, served as train bearer. The groom was accompanied by Horace Gilbert as best man. The wedding march was played by Miss Anna Search Cliff. During the bridal procession and during the ceremony, the musicians for the evening played softly, but, after the wedding supper, played or dancing.

During the serving of the wedding collation, Miss Sara Jones, of Philadelphia sang.

The dining room carried out the yellow color scheme, with large baskets of flowers in the golden and russet brown tones of early fall.

Miss Edith Holbrook Black opened her kindergarten on Monday at the Friends School.

Charles Cornell, of Newtown, was a Sunday visitor of Mr. Wilbur B. Cornell.

Mrs. Andrew Oatman has returned from visiting her sister in Maryland.

Miss Lily H. Ridge, who has been enjoying a two week's vacation, returned to the bank on Tuesday.

BAD BREATH
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

Mrs. William Mitchell has moved to Germantown.

William Perkins is attending the Penn Charter School.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Marshall have returned from a motor trip to Dunbar, Baltimore and Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Linton and son, Theodore and Miss Anna H. Hibbs spent Sunday at Asbury Park.

Miss Elizabeth Nelson has been spending her vacation at Asbury Park.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church will have its annual fair the 8th and 9th of December, and is now meeting at stated intervals to make a large quantity of fancy and useful articles.

Work is going on in the short cut of the Lincoln Highway at Oakford and South Langhorne, where some improved machinery is being operated by Contractor McNichol of Philadelphia.

Pedestrian Walks and Talks.
These nice Sunday walks, when two friends get to know one another so intimately; the Sunday-evening talks when you gather by two and three in the firelight and talk so freely; oh what a power they are for good! I used to say: what a power for harm if wasted or misused! No one wants you to force the conversation into an edifying channel; but one knows how to talk bitingly, as it were, and now often there is a choice between high and low, wise and foolish, kindly and unkindly. Elizabeth Wordsworth.

Where the Cypress Grows.
The cypress tree grows in swampy districts in the southeastern section of the United States. About forty per cent of the present available supply is in Louisiana and about twenty-five per cent in Florida. The remainder is scattered through the states that border the Atlantic, the Gulf of Mexico and the lower course of the Mississippi.

Keeping Books.
Leather bound books should be kept where the air is hot and dry and circulates freely enough to prevent the natural oil of the leather drying out too rapidly.

Pests Able to Travel Far.
Investigations have shown that certain kinds of malaria-bearing mosquitoes can fly over four miles.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our son, George N. Roberts, Co. D, 312th Machine Gun Battalion, who died in France, October 6, 1918.
We miss you from our home, dear son;
We miss you from your place
A shadow o'er our life is cast
We miss your loving face.
Sadly missed by Mother and Father.
